

Calypso Director
Jennifer Cohen
(B.F.A. SUNY Purchase,
M.Ed. University of Vermont) is a classically trained pianist and violist.

During her 30 years experience as a performer and educator she has seen firsthand how the transformative power of collaborative music making can be used to achieve outstanding results.

Jennifer started Calypso Consulting as a way to bring this transformative experience into the workplace. She chose steel drums because they are easy to play -- absolutely no experience is necessary -- and their sound is relaxing and inviting, like a tropical breeze.

Under Jennifer's guidance, Calypso participants experience creativity, joy, and camaraderie. Moreover, the parallels between successful music-making and effective business practice reveal themselves throughout the process, paving the way for genuine team building and innovation.

Steel Drum Workshops
For
Corporate Team Building,
Innovation & Wellness

TEAM BUILDING

Under Calypso's guidance, steel drums become the perfect tools for developing and improving specific skills such as:

- Collaboration & cooperation
- Communication
- Leadership capacity

As team members practice, listen and play music together they strengthen bonds and forge deeper connections.

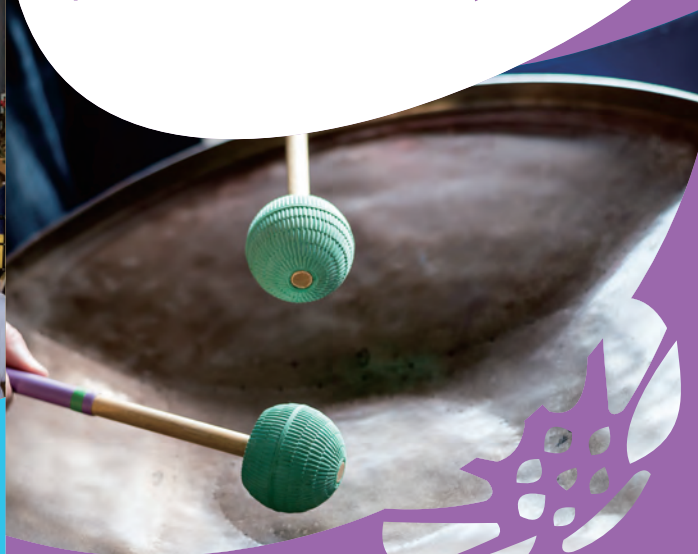

'This was a fantastic team building event. We were all concentrating like crazy... Once we got the hang of it we were ROCKIN! Lots of laughter and learning.'

INNOVATION THROUGH HARMONY

Calypso offers this intellectually stimulating workshop as a means to shake things up and view projects from a new perspective.

Participants will have the opportunity to explore music as metaphor during this dynamic and transformative experience. This workshop requires commitment, but the results are long lasting and worth the effort. Everyone will take a leadership role and have fun working together throughout the process. Collaboration is key.

'I didn't want it to end!'

WELLNESS

Keeping employees happy is smart business practice.

Bring Calypso to the workplace to provide a highly engaging and creative experience that will impact the work environment in a positive way.

Happiness creates success.

'Jennifer was an excellent teacher — easy to understand and very supportive. A lot of what we learned can be taken back to the office.'
